

Lake Picachos: The Hottest Lake in Mexico

In case you have been under a rock for the past 6 months and have not heard, the hottest bass fishing lake in the world right now is Lake Picachos; which is only 45 minutes from Mazatlan, Mexico. Direct flights are available daily, from either DFW or IAH. A new lake in Mexico only opens about once every decade, and when one does, the fishing is as good as it gets. Whether you are a seasoned Mexico bass fisherman, or you have never been, fishing a Mexican lake during its first few years is something that you want to add to your bucket list.

Ron Speeds opened the first camp on the lake in February, and I had the opportunity to fish the lake for one day with a few of our PWF members. During our single day of fishing, member Jackson Bean and I caught over 100 fish. Members Jon Waters and Brad Shields fished about a month ago, and caught over 100 fish each day for all 3 days of their trip. Members Mark Brady and Greg Wilkinson have fished the lake 3 times since February, and are going again in October. During a trip in June, Mark and Greg caught over 200 fish in a single day. You get the point, the lake is Red Hot.

I am an agent for Ron Speeds, and can help you with your questions and with booking your trip. Currently, rates are $1595 for a 3 day trip, $1795 for a 4 day trip, and $2395 for a 7 day trip. Air fares are an additional $400 to $600.

If you are considering a trip to Lake Picachos, let me know and we will find a date that works for you. If you book your trip with us, we have a gift for you. Please call with questions.
